Sunday, August 21 7:30 Free to new students!

1958 > Japan > Directed by Akira Kurosawa

With Toshiro Mifune, Misa Uehara

Kurosawa's first Tohoscope film provided the inspiration for George Lucas when he set out to make Star Wars some twenty years later. In it, Toshiro Mifune, accompanied by two peasants perpetually at each other's throats, sets out to rescue a princess in feudal Japan. "Kurosawa set a new standard for visualized excitement that filmmakers have been imitating ever since." (Armond White) Subtitled. More at janusfilms.com/kurosawa

Friday, August 26 7:00 Free to ALL CU students!

2016 > USA > Directed by Byron Howard, Jared Bush & Rich Moore

With voices of Ginnifer Goodwin, Jason Bateman, Idris Elba

Set in a marvelously imagined animals-only city where a police bunny works to solve a crime with the help of a con-artist fox. "Disney's new animated movie may be the most subversive movie of the year.... This baby has attitude, a potent feminist streak, a tough take on racism, and a cinema-centric plot that references The Godfather, Chinatown and L.A. Confidential. The kids, paying zero attention to such things, will love it. But the grownups will have even more fun digging in." (Rolling Stone) More at movies.disney.com/zootopia

Chimes at Midnight w/intro by & Q & A with Larry Jackson '70 (former studio executive and Welles' collaborator)

Wednesday, August 31 7:15

1966 > Spain/Swiss > Directed by Orson Welles

With Orson Welles, Jeanne Moreau

Stitching together five Shakespeare plays, Orson Welles centers on the recurring character of Sir John Falstaff, childhood friend of King Henry IV's wayward son, Prince Hal. Welles was born to play Falstaff, a genial drunkard whose mouth and mind are as oversized as his belly. Roundly considered Welles' crowning achievement, it is said every word of dialogue is Shakespeare's own. Quite a feat, considering the film feels so completely Orson Welles! 2014 > UK > Directed by Randall Wright

The quintessential California painter, who made his first splash with the swimming pool as landscape, is ironically from Yorkshire. At 77, David Hockney has opened up his archive. Wright's affectionate documentary "presents such an immersive portrait of its subject... that by the end of the film it feels like we are looking at the world through his eyes." 1965 > Italy > Directed by Antonio Pietrangeli

With Stefania Sandrelli, Mario Adorf, Jean-Claude Brialy

A character study that never strays from its complicated central figure as she chases her dreams in Rome, I Knew Her Well is one of the most overlooked films of the sixties: by turns funny, tragic, and altogether jaw-dropping. Brand-new digital restoration by Janus Films in partnership with the Cineteca di Bologna. Subtitled.
